

BERGER SINGERMAN HOSTS SECOND ANNUAL HURRICANE PREPAREDNESS WEEK SERIES TO READY FLORIDA BUSINESSES FOR STORM SEASON

May 16, 2017

MIAMI, FL – May 17, 2017 – Berger Singerman, Florida's business law firm, has announced it will host a series of educational workshops and webinars from June 5 through 9 to prepare local business owners for the upcoming hurricane season. The firm will also release several informative blog posts addressing key preparedness tips relevant for various industries, including utilities, healthcare, hospitality, manufacturing, agriculture, and real estate.

With five named storms impacting the Southeast U.S. coast in 2016 alone, including Hurricanes Hermine and Matthew which made landfall in Florida, it is crucial now more than ever for businesses to be equipped with the necessary tools.

Events in the series are open to the public, and will be hosted by the firm's team members who specialize in insurance, real estate, cybersecurity and construction litigation. The workshops will focus on a range of topics aimed to prepare the community in the event of a natural disaster; topics include:

- "Best Practices for Handling Insurance Claims for Property/Association Managers" workshop: Attorneys Michael Higer and Gina Clausen Lozier will host a webinar educating property management and association professionals on how to prepare to best handle insurance claims in the wake of a hurricane.
- "The Peril of the Wind Created Opening" workshop: Attorneys Michael Higer and Gina Clausen Lozier will host an in-person course for public adjusters on the applicable insurance policy provisions related to wind and hurricane claims.

In addition to the educational seminars, the firm's blog, Doing Business in Florida, will offer comprehensive information and tools that can be applied during and after a natural disaster. The new blogs will address:

- The obligations to secure equipment and construction materials during storms and the potential liability for failing to do so;
