

HOSPITALITY & GAMING LITIGATION

Berger Singerman's Hotel & Hospitality Litigation Group represents developers, owners, investors, vendors and operators of hotel, resort, casino and club properties on a wide range of disputes locally, nationally and internationally. With many of our practitioners situated in South Florida, the firm has been involved in hundreds of engagements in this industry, ranging from representing competing ownership interests in a management dispute, advising on cybersecurity threats, or counselling creditors seeking a recovery from a distressed asset.

Our intimate understanding of the hospitality industry is facilitated by our deep experience in both transaction and litigation matters. Berger Singerman attorneys understand the hotel and hospitality business. As a result, owners, operators, managers, brands, developers and financiers turn to our hotel and hospitality attorneys for our wealth of knowledge.

The Hotel & Hospitality Litigation Group offers a wide range of legal solutions designed to minimize the risk and distraction of expensive litigation. However, when litigation cannot be avoided, we are able to mobilize a team of litigators with extensive trial experience. With Group members resident throughout Florida, we offer support for clients in virtually every forum including state, federal and international courts, arbitrations, mediations, administrative hearings and agency panels, planning commissions, development review boards, city and county commissions, and legislative bodies.
