BERGER SINGERMAN
FLORIDA'S BUSINESS LAW FIRM

DAILY BUSINESS REVIEW "GETTING READY: HOW HURRICANE SEASON CAN AFFECT REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS"

The annual arrival of hurricane season in Florida requires more than just a home readiness review: shutters, flashlights, batteries, etc. It is also the time to weather-proof your planned real estate transactions with a close examination of the requirements and deadlines of commercial (and residential) purchase and sale agreements.

August 5, 2020

By: Joshua B. Brandsdorfer

Daily Business Review

View Full Article

The annual arrival of hurricane season in Florida requires more than just a home readiness review: shutters, flashlights, batteries, etc. It is also the time to weather-proof your planned real estate transactions with a close examination of the requirements and deadlines of commercial (and residential) purchase and sale agreements.

Related Practices

Real Estate

Related Practice Teams

Business, Finance & Tax

Related Team Member(s)

Joshua B. Brandsdorfer

Topics

Hurricane Preparedness

Real Estate