The Team's attorneys understand the goals, competing interests and dynamic tensions affecting transactions, and add value in structuring and achieving results that maximize efficiency and after-tax benefits to clients. By working closely with tax practice group members, our Transactional Team designs forward-looking plans that can create substantial tax savings and add value to anticipated transactions. Several of the Team's attorneys served as general counsel to major corporations and many practiced with large, multi-national law firms before joining Berger Singerman. The experience our Team members gained while serving as in house counsel for business clients informs all our Team's members to appreciate our clients' perspectives and draw upon our most effective business and professional relationships and other resources to achieve an optimal result in each transaction.

Our Business, Finance and Tax Team has worked hard to earn an excellent reputation as a market leader for sophisticated and effective counsel in complex business transactions. We provide the services our clients need in order to achieve their business goals and advance their business interests. Our Business, Finance and Tax Team members understand the pace at which business moves; we get deals done.
