Michael J. Keskonis is a Partner on the firm's Business, Finance & Tax Team. He focuses his practice on domestic and international matters, advising public and private companies on mergers and acquisitions, corporate restructurings, financings, joint ventures, divestitures, tax planning, transfer pricing, and tax controversy matters. He also counsels clients on the corporate and tax aspects of cross-border transactions and other complex business initiatives.

With more than 25 years of experience in both private practice and senior corporate leadership roles, Michael brings a comprehensive understanding of the legal, financial, accounting, and business considerations that impact complex transactions. Prior to joining Berger Singerman, he served as Senior Tax Counsel at nationally and internationally recognized law firms and held senior tax leadership positions with multinational public companies, where he advised on significant domestic and international transactions, corporate restructurings, financings, and strategic planning initiatives.

Michael regularly works with executives, legal departments, accounting professionals, and financial advisors to develop practical strategies that support business objectives and address complex operational and transactional challenges. His experience spans a wide range of industries and includes advising clients on matters involving acquisitions, divestitures, capital markets transactions, private equity investments, and global business operations.
